Second Presbyterian church, made the opening prayer, Afterward, the schedule embraced chapter reports and the re-port of the Jefferson Davis Monument Association, by Mrs. S. T. McCullough. An interesting discussion followed the report of the monument and cemetery committee as to the printing or non-printing of the reports.

Finally, on motion of Mrs. O'Brien, of Alexandria, Va., the secretary was instructed to that the reports in shape to be printed, and turn them over to the care of the Confederate Museum.

Mrs. Montague addressed the meeting from the platform, and invited the presidents of the different chapters attending the convention, to receive with her at a reception given from 6 to 7 P. M., yesterday, at the Needy Confederate Woman's Home to the delegates and members of the Division in a body. Mrs. Montague's invitation was accepted. A strong appeal, made by her to the Division in behalf of the home, was deferred for consideration until the forenoon of to-day, when the new business is to come up.

Paid Beautiful Tribute.

Paid Beautiful Tribute.

Mrs. McCollough paid an eloquent tribute to the work done in behalf of the Davis monument by the members of the central committee, Mrs. N V. Randolph, chalrman, Mrs. E. D. Taylor, treasurer; Mrs. E. V. Valentine, Mrs. Alfred Gray, Mrs. C. E. Belling, Mrs. Kate S. Winn, Mrs. J. Dabney Carr, Mrs. Thomas Leary Miss Minite Baughman, Miss Anne Bentley, Mrs. Maria Robinson, Mrs. Slias Shelburne, Mrs. Charles Bosher, Mrs. John Robertson, Mrs. John Lamb, Mrs. Joseph Bryan, Mrs. W. Arthur Warren, Mrs. D. C. Richardson, Mrs. Stephen Beveridge, Mrs. Thomas W. Gardner.

The receiving party included Mrs. N. V. Randolph, Mrs. J. Taylor Ellyson, Miss Mamle Baughman. Mrs. William Mahone, of Petersburg; Mrs. S. T. McCullough, of Staunton; Miss Ruth Jennings, of Lynchburg, and Mrs. Edgar D. Taylor.

Other officers of memorial assolations, instead of standing formally in line, walked through the hall and made themselves agreeable to the guests of the evening. The hall was ablaze with light, decorated with palms and roses, and filed with the strains of an orchestra that played throughout reception hours.

Many of the members of Lee Camp were present in their Confederate uniform. Capitaln Joe Hobson of Powhatan, wearing the grey, came in with his sister, Mrs. Clara Nash, and was warmly greeted by his many friends.

Few persons present at this convention have been accorded more deference or oven received with sincerer respect than Miss Sally Tompkins, whose name calls upvertything that is noble and devoted insofar as Confederate service is reekoned. Around her have been gathered the most prominent, cager to shake her hand and exchange a word of greeting with her.

Elegant Gowning.

Elegant Gowning.

Mrs. A. J. Montague was at the reception, after being the hostess at the Confederate Woman's Home in the afternoon. The gowning for this gala convention eventing was as elegant and as tasteful as the toilets displayed by Virginia women on such occusions are apt to be.

Refrediments were served by a number of young ladies from the Junior Hollywood Memorial Association, who were exceedingly attentive and deft in supplying the wants of the company.

In the late hours of the afternoon session of yesterday the most vital and interesting question of the convention came up, that of salaried U. D. C. officers. There was a deeded division of opinion on this question and a lively discussion over it, which ended in the voting down of salaries in so far as Virginia is concerned.

Will Elect Officers.

Will Elect Officers.

The convention closes to-night. It has been a most profitable and satisfactory meeting and the social aspects of it most delightful. The election of new officers carries with it regret for the retirement of a president and others who have been, by their service, invaluable to the disvision. It introduces an element of the strongest, interest into the closing business of the day.

Under the head of other new business are several questions requiring thought and careful judgment in their adjustment.

The convention, which has so ably disposed of all previous matters, will probably arrange for these in the best nostille way. Certainly the Richmond Chapter, from the way in which it has enjoyed the pagt week, will be likely to feel disposed to have a hand in one question and that will be the place of the next meetins.

Faust at Academy.

A well-filled house greeted Mr. Lewis Morrison at the Academy last night in his performance of faust. Mr. Morrison has plaved this part over twenty seasons and as he remarks with pardonable pride, he has never had a had house in Richmond. In this there is food for reflection. Faust as a play, is faust with the music left out, and one will see the same people going to sleep during the opera and wide aware during the play.

It is safe to say there were few of the audience who had not seen the production one or more times before, and yet they will come again the next time Mr. Morrison plays.

It must, as Mr. Morrison, himself for he is surely an "illigant divil," his support without exception being mediocre. Court, had no opposition and received 858 votes.

Great Surprise.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

COMORN, VA., November 8.—The King
George Democrats are very much elated over the result of Tuesday's election, while the Republicans are "down in the mouth." Nobody was surprised by the triumph of the State ticket; but the defeat of F. W. Payne (Republican) by R. C. L. Moncure (Democrat.) for the House of Delegates, in King George and Stafford, was the most surprising feature of all.

Stafford, was the most surprising feature of all.

As repeatedly stated in this correspondence, Mr. Payne is the strongest and most popular man in the Republican party in these counties, and for some time his election was regarded as a forezone conclusion. He was personally known to nearly every man in King George, and to many in Stafford, and is one of the most experienced and successful politicians and campaigners in the district while Mr. Concure, Democrat, did not have half a dozen acquaintances in King George, Judge R. H. L. Chichester, the new Democratic chairman of Stafford, who practically conducted Moneure's campaign in both counties, has proven himself to be one of the best party leaders and engineers in the State.

Gratifying Reports.

The chapter reports, as a whole, were most gratifying. They showed the women of those chapters as deeply interested in historical, charitable and monumental work, with taxes paid and a halance in their treasury.

Mrs. S. T. McColloush made a most gratifying report from the Jefferson Davis Monument Association, and delivered to the Daughters an invitation from Mr. E. V. Valentine to visit his studio in small bodies and note the progress of his work on the monument. This invitation was most gratifying.

Paid Beautiful Tribute.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 3.—Charles Olsen of Illinois, and Jimmy Parr, of England have signed articles for a match to decide the world's middleweight wrestling championship. Parr, holds the English championship beit, while Olsen claims that he has yet to meet his first defeat. The men will meet in this city Thanksgiving night.
